Dear Harold:

Sorry it has taken me so long to get back in touch with you. We arrived back home on July 1, and have been preoccupied with visiting family in Maine over the holidays and getting our lives back in order.

We had a wonderful semester in London. We had a tiny flat, but it was beautifully located close to museums and services and a short walk from the college where I was teaching and Nancy was taking courses. There is so much to see and do that we only scratched the surface. It was interesting, if somewhat depressing, to be there during the election as well.

I have been in touch with Gerry. We are both getting back to workon the book. I hope we can make some progress before we both get back to school in September.

Glad you and Lil are reasonably well.

I'll write a real letter soon.

Sincerely,

Dennis
